london college has found the blueprint for christian education!

to find what a christian college should teach, the faculty and directors of our school looked to the word of God.

in luke 2:52 is the basis for a curriculum aimed at developing the total person academically, physically, devotionally and socially.

"Jesus grew in wisdom" wisdom is undoubtedly one of the most important prerequisites for a christian leader.

since wisdom is judgment based on sound scholarship, the academic standard of our school is being raised and a broader selection of subjects is being provided.

by reaching for these higher goals, our college is responding to the demands of our day for wisdom.

"Jesus grew in stature" man, however, consists of more than a mind. our bodies must be considered an essential part of our beings, for the body is designed to be the temple of the Holy Spirit.

our school teaches us to "glorify God in our body and spirit which are His." for this reason, games and physical exercises are part of our programme.

"Jesus grew in favour with God" history has shown that the greek ideal of a "healthy mind in a healthy body" is inadequate for securing peace and happiness.

the central aim of our school is to teach us to live in constant communication with our Creator. devotions, chapel services and conferences are more than just incidentals.

"Jesus grew in favour with man" if we have all the above and yet fail in our social responsibility, we have not fulfilled our God-ordained calling.

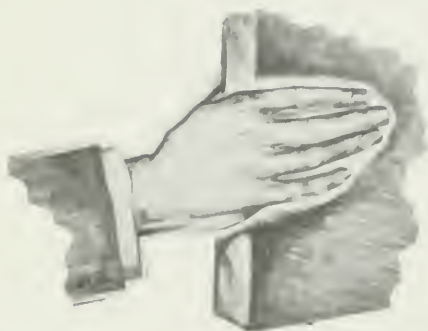

london college, our alma mater, therefore strives to give us academic, physical, devotional and social training.

this developing of the whole man is education that is truly christian.

keith adams, '51

i only ask that softly, hand in hand a little child and i may enter at Thy gate.

this intense concern for children characterized keith's seven years as general director of christian service centers.

after many years with a severe heart condition, keith went home to be with the Lord on aug. 1, 1962.

he leaves his wife mona and three children.

ian macdonald, B.A., '54

"God's ways are not ours—now we must rest in Him, although we feel deeply our loss," wrote barbara macdonald after her husband ian went to be with the Lord as a result of a car accident on aug. 31, 1962. two young children also survive.

ian taught elementary school until he entered an honours geography course at the university of western ontario. barbara received his degree posthumously at the convocation in november, 1962.

dedication

this yearbook is affectionately dedicated to our beloved president

dr. j. c. macaulay.

through his dedication to Christ and His calling, and his deep insight into spiritual matters, dr. macaulay has earned the respect and affection of each student.

may this book be memorable to you, dr. macaulay, and a stepping stone to greater things to come as l.c.b.m. grows under your leadership!

board of governors

to my students:

greetings! and to those who are about to graduate, congratulations!

you have taken upon you the name of the Lord Jesus Christ. wherever you go, therefore, you are presenting an image of Him. is it a true image that you present, or a distorted image?

as graduates and students of london college of bible and missions you are also presenting, to the christian community and to the world, an image of your school. the image we are earnestly seeking to create, and which we trust you will be able to present, is this:

1. a school where the Lord Jesus has the pre-eminence;
2. a school which stands by its evangelical commitment, not in a cold, formal manner, but with heart zeal;
3. a school that is sure of its mission—to send well equipped heralds of the gospel to all the world;
4. a school where academic excellence is part of our consecration to Christ.

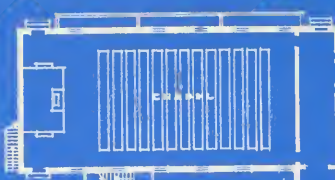

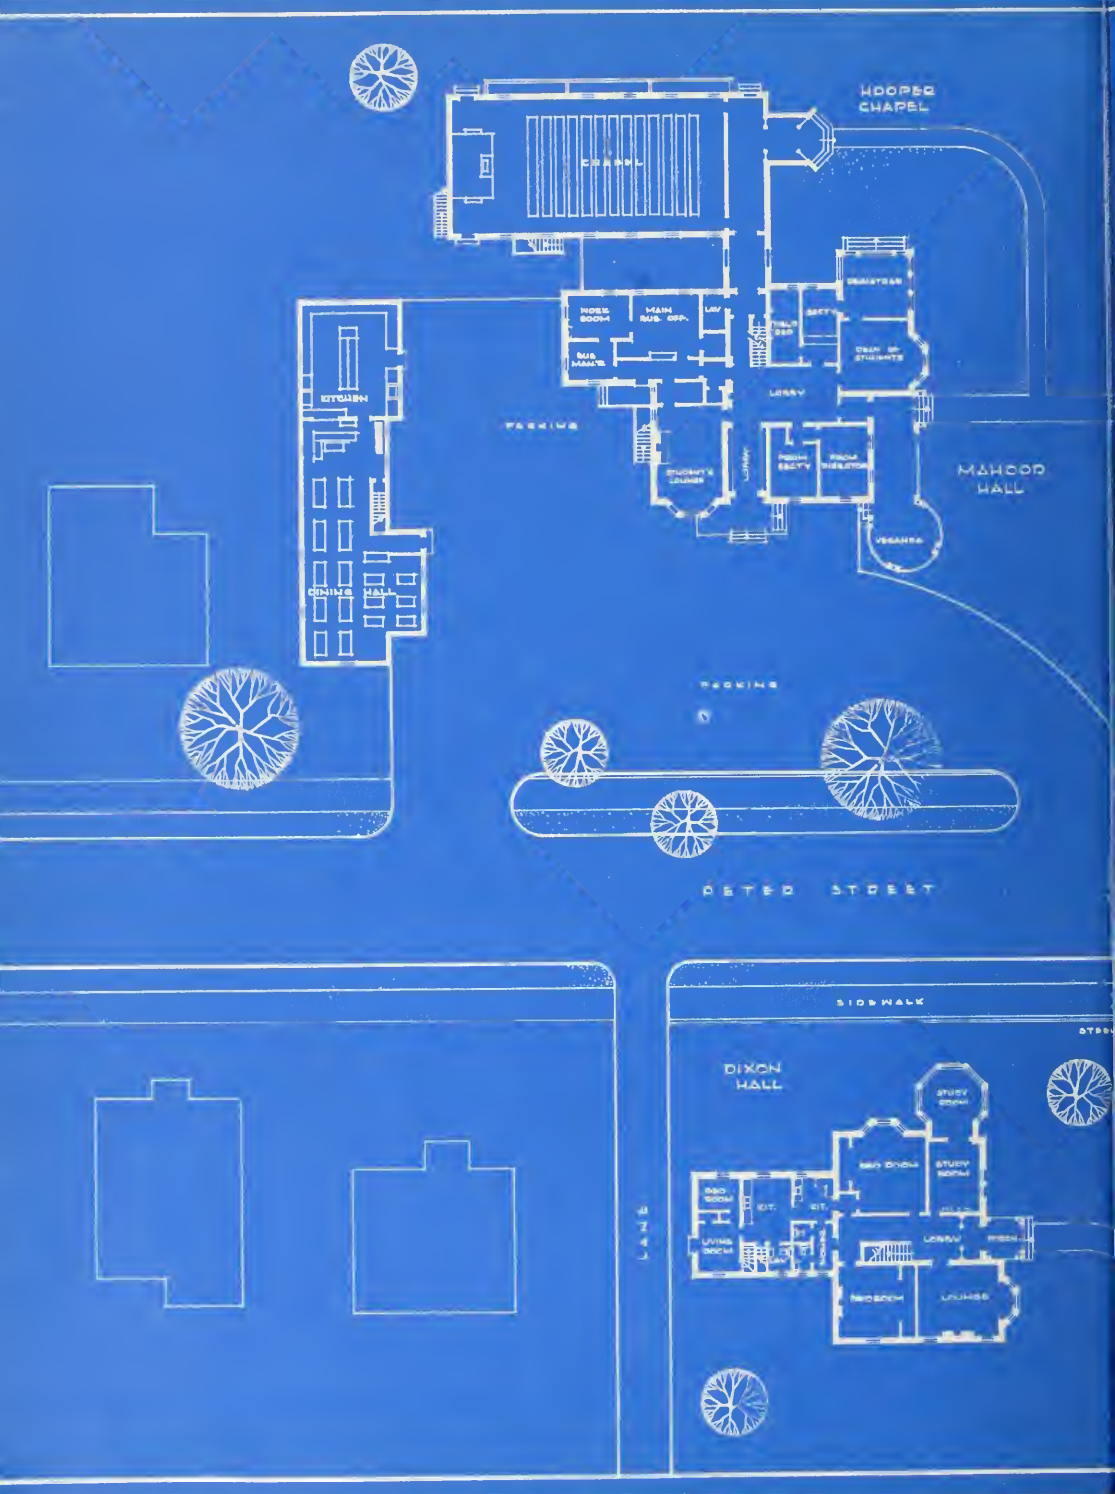

the Lord has graciously provided help for the launching of a programme of increased academic offerings, but to reach our goals we need the faithful and sacrificial support of all our friends.

may the Lord fill you with His grace, and make all of you vessels unto honour in His household.

keep digging—the answers are all in the book!

for the enthusiast who works all day and still wishes to study, l.c.b.m. provides evening courses.

two hours each tuesday, mr. nuss expounds the old testament in a bible survey course.

each thursday, mr. bell presents the bible in a new and living way to students eager to learn systematic bible study methods.

"Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" was the question that faced each student during the missionary conference, feb. 25 to 28, 1962.

forums, speakers, films and displays presented the task, the tools and the times of the mission field today.

rev. harold germaine, deputation secretary of the sudan interior mission in western canada, was a main speaker. rev. elwyn davies, director for canada of the bible christian union, gave morning bible studies.

As Chairman of the Board of Governors of London College of Bible and Missions, it is my privilege to extend greetings to all the students of the College

It is a source of joy to each one of us on the Board to be associated with the College. In a sense we are your servants in carrying out the program of the School. We know that your lives are full of problems and we seek to remember you in prayers. In the realm of government we too, are confronted with problems of operation and are often conscious that people, particularly students, have been praying.

The fact that you are here is an indication that you desire to "study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the Word of Truth." We pray for your success in acquiring knowledge, a goal to which, as you know, there is no royal road. Above all, we pray that you may learn the lessons of discipline, of faith, of prayer and of unwavering devotion which are essential in the life of the victorious Christian warrior.

May the God "who is able to keep you from falling and to present you faultless before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy" be your abiding portion in college days and also in the great life of service after graduation to which God may call you. There is no higher ambition than to be a faithful servant of God.

LIFE INSURANCE and ANNUITIES
FROM the BUYER'S POINT OF VIEW
An Economic Education Bulletin Published By

American Institute
For Economic Research

A nonpolitical, noncommercial organization

The Presbyterian Ministers' Fund offers insurance to all ministers, their wives, and students of the ministry. This organization is the oldest life insurance company and operates on a mutual basis. The net cost to policyholders of insurance issued by this organization is exceedingly low. For the relatively limited group eligible, we consider this insurance especially favourable.
